

UNCW has issued, and continues to issue, information related to its plan to address COVID-19 (commonly referred to as Coronavirus). UNCW notified faculty and students that all summer 2020 courses (May-August) will take place online.

The College of Arts and Sciences (CAS) has made, or is making, arrangements for alternative assignments that fulfill program requirements, including for clinical placements and internships (hereinafter referred to collectively as “internships”).

UNCW and CAS’s recommendation is that you make arrangements for alternative course assignments with your instructor.

By signing, you acknowledge that your decision to continue attending an internship is completely voluntary. You acknowledge that you understand the health risks of attending the internship and that your physical presence in the facility, which may include direct contact with other people, may significantly increase your risk of exposure to COVID-19 and other illness. You agree to abide by all policies and procedures of the host facility regarding COVID-19 and other infectious diseases, including those regarding self-reporting and self-quarantine in the event you experience symptoms of illness. You understand that the host facility may prohibit you from attending your internship in the event you manifest, or appear to manifest, symptoms of illness. You understand that the host facility may later decide not to accept students, and/or UNCW and CAS may later decide to require you to make alternative course assignments. You understand that UNCW and CAS are not responsible in the event you are exposed to, or contract, COVID-19 or other illness as a result of your attendance in the internship and/or presence in the host facility.

UNCW and CAS reserve the right to restrict students’ attendance in internships in the event of new university, local/city/county, System, State, or Federal guidance or mandates.
