Consistent with UNCW's philosophy of field education, grade assignment for the field internship is intended to be collaborative in nature, calling upon both the field instructor and student to critically reflect on the student's performance in field. While the final grade is assigned by the field instructor, the process is designed to include the student's input and provide an opportunity for discussion. The rubric below is designed to assess a student's overall engagement in the learning process. In assessing engagement in the learning process, please consider the following areas holistically:

- a) Attention to and intentional involvement / initiative in learning;
- b) Integration of feedback received;
- c) Professional behavior, demeanor, and attitude;
- d) Effective demonstration of practice behaviors linked to core competencies on the learning contract
