

Presenting

Generational Diversity in the Workplace

Working today often means joining a team with a range of ages. From millennials to Generation X-ers to Baby Boomers, the differences in values, communication styles, and work habits of each generation are becoming increasingly evident. Getting a handle on how to navigate this sometimes rugged terrain can be more than challenging.

Upcoming Dates:

Thursday, September 28 and Friday, November 17

Presented by: Kimberly McLaughlin-Smith

9:00-10:30am | Friday Annex 136 | Visit the Catalog to Register

This workshop will provide supervisors and administrators with the tools needed to help clarify and better manage the various dynamics at play. Through interactive skill-building exercises and candid open dialogue, what may seem daunting will become attainable. Office culture CAN be adjusted in ways that fit and address the needs of all concerned - join us to learn how.

What's in it for you?

- Recognize when generational differences are at play
- Help your team become and remain more cohesive
- Learn the value of working with diverse generations
- Gain new, encouraging terminology

Tools Needed:

- Open Mind
- Note Pad
- Writing Utensil

Co-Sponsored by the Dare to Learn Academy
HR Learning & Talent Development
UNC Wilmington