WHAT WE OFFER
Comprehensive master’s program that includes classroom instruction with an engaged faculty, required internships and other applied learning opportunities that prepare graduates for careers in higher education.

WHOM WE SERVE
Current and aspiring higher education professionals.

WHERE WILL YOU GO?
Graduates of our program pursue careers in higher education, including roles at community colleges, colleges and universities.

HIGHER LEARNING. HIGHER GOALS.
Across the country, centers of postsecondary education are giving students the knowledge and tools they need to affect the world around them. Our Higher Education program prepares current and aspiring higher education professionals for the important work they do on those campuses.

The Master of Education (M.Ed.) in Higher Education is designed for people who wish to enter or advance in administrative and/or academic support roles in colleges and universities. It provides social, historical, philosophical, developmental and international perspectives of postsecondary education.

ADDITIONAL CERTIFICATE OPTIONS
- College Teaching and Learning
- Community College and Leadership

LEARN ABROAD
Higher education students may participate in our international internship program at Maynooth University, just outside of Dublin, Ireland. This two-week program allows students to practice administrative and leadership work, conduct assessment or research-based projects, or develop educational or social programming for student and academic service units at an international institution of higher education.

APPLIED LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES
M.Ed. students have many opportunities to engage in practical experiences that apply concepts covered in our coursework. These experiences include internships offered through our Certified Internship Program and participation in a culminating project informed by scholarship and research on a topic related to your professional interest in higher education.

GRADUATE PROFILE
My courses have not only prepared me to enter the workforce with a strong work ethic, they have strengthened my knowledge of higher education as a whole and made me more confident in my abilities.

Chance, M.Ed. in Higher Education