Join us on our front porch from your front porch for conversation with local folx as they share their stories and insight about the intersectional work of advocating for people of all gender identities.
As Founder and CEO of CBK Enterprises, Chimi focuses on equity by helping organizations incorporate intersectional approaches in their work, and is passionate about creating programs and initiatives that develop leaders and promote an equitable, inclusive environment.

Chimi is a co-Principal Investigator of the only published study that exists on Sexual Assault at Historically Black Colleges and Universities (HBCUs) and has been a consultant for many local, state, and national agencies. In addition to being the co-founder of Helpers Helpers and Advocates for Violence Ending Now (HAVEN) and Circle of Sisters, Chimi is proud to have created a bystander intervention training specifically for HBCUs and students of color; a leadership development program for high school girls and college women of color; and a spoken word tool for people of color to talk about gender-based violence.

A native of Durham, NC, Chimi is proud to have received both her BA and MA in psychology from UNC-Chapel Hill and North Carolina Central University, respectively.
