

Jennifer Coombs Promoted to Director of Employment and Compensation

It is my pleasure to announce that Jennifer Coombs, who currently works as an Employment and Compensation Consultant, has been named Director of Employment and Compensation for the University of North Carolina Wilmington. In this role, Jennifer will provide leadership to the UNCW Employment, Classification, & Compensation team. Jennifer will also advise managers and department heads concerning effective position management, position design based on current guidelines, classification, and best practices. In addition, Jennifer will provide policy guidance to divisions, HR salary administration, and the university budget office for implementation of all university-wide compensation activity.

Please join me in congratulating Jennifer as she assumes this new leadership role in Human Resources.
