Double Majoring:

Because International Studies is an interdisciplinary major, many of its courses are drawn from courses with an international focus offered by other departments. These courses make double majoring much easier.

Studying Abroad:

Gaining an international perspective requires that students have some real international experience. Although there are several ways to achieve this international experience, UNCW's Office of International Programs offers a wide variety of exciting Study Abroad and Exchange opportunities. UNCW offers more than 500 programs in over 50 countries. Go for a semester, or a year, or even for a few weeks in the summer. You must earn at least 3 credit hours abroad, so there is a program that meets your academic requirements, budget, and dreams.
