UNC Online

If you are teaching an online course and seats are not filling, you may want to make your course available for advertising within UNC Online. UNCO is simply a bridge between the UNC campuses that allows students across the state to enroll in online courses on any campus. The students who take advantage of this will look no different from our own UNCW students. In fact, for the purposes of enrollment, they are UNCW students. There are two ways to make your course visible to all 16 campuses: add an IIC attribute to your course within Banner or provide your course information to Jonathan Reece, Registrar.

To view current offerings within UNC Online, go to <http://online.northcarolina.edu/unconline/courses.php> and search by campus, subject, term, etc.

The Champ is Here!

The Office of the Registrar is excited to welcome a new member to our team! Champ, a 12 month old purebred chocolate lab, joined our staff in November. Champ joins us as part of the UNCW and paws4people Assistance Dog Training Program, and is being trained by one of our student workers, Emma Sieck. Currently, Champ is training to be a hearing alert and psychiatric service dog for PTSD. In his spare time he loves to play with pinecones and his bone, prefers praise over treats, and would do anything for a hot dog!

As you might remember, we introduced Mercer last month, who has gone on to bigger and better things, and has been united with his new family!
